

A PERSONAL TELEVISION DIAL

REALSIGNAL

THE DIAL

A living television archive for curious people - part retro cable box, part public media shelf, part live signal desk.

221 CHANNELS	13 GUIDE GROUPS	FIVE-ITEM SOURCE QUEUES
Curated entertainment, archive, music, sports, and live-data lanes.	Browse by purpose instead of hunting through a flat list.	Source-driven channels keep the next programs ready and filtered.

RealSignal is designed to feel like turning on a great television system: pick a lane, press power, and let the programming carry you. Archive channels are intentional about genre. Live channels surface changing information. Music channels are made for listening. Nothing here requires a cable subscription.

CURRENT RELEASE

Version 1.9.0 - Source Suite expansion

START HERE

The controls are deliberately simple. The app remembers your last channel and keeps guide information tied to what is actually queued or live.

CONTROL	WHAT IT DOES
POWER	Turns the television on or off. On mobile, open the REMOTE panel first.
CHANNEL	Use CH UP/DOWN or the number keys to move through the stable numeric lineup.
GUIDE	Browse all channels or narrow the directory by a clean guide group, then search by channel or program.
NEXT	Skips the current program or live item. Source Suite channels advance through their ready queue.
VOLUME / MUTE	Controls the app player and audio beds. Music and radio channels are audio-first.
MENU	Open settings, diagnostics, favorites, help, texture choices, and other system controls.

MOBILE TIP

Tap REMOTE on the right edge to open the controls. The panel fades away after a short pause, leaving the picture clear. If a local feed asks for location access, allowing it improves nearby weather, traffic, price, and buoy results; the app can still operate without it.

HOW THE PROGRAMMING IS ORGANIZED

The guide is organized around what you want to watch, not how the underlying source is implemented. IA and archive lanes remain separate from the newer Source Suite lanes, even when their subjects overlap.

SOURCE SUITE

Source Suite is the app's verified, source-driven programming layer. Each lane uses the same channel architecture: strict topic terms, deny terms to reduce genre bleed, provider fallback, rights-aware screening, metadata, a five-item queue, guide now/next data, and a working NEXT action.

The current source pilot qualified five candidates from both YouTube and PeerTube for every lane. That means the suite can expand without pretending a dead or mismatched source is a real program.

CH	CHANNEL	WHAT IT DOES
513	Public Health Archive	Public-health, sanitation, medical education, hospital, and epidemiology films.
514	The Signal Room	Telegraph, telephone, radio, broadcasting, and communications history.
515	The Darkroom	Photography, camera history, darkroom technique, and cinematography.
516	Restoration Row	Film, artifact, museum, and building preservation and restoration.
517	Consumer Report	Consumer education, product safety, testing, and household buying guidance.
518	The Map Room	Cartography, map making, geography, surveying, and map history.
519	Military Archive	Military history, public-domain training films, wartime documentation, and technology history.
520	Public Works	Civil engineering, municipal infrastructure, transit, utilities, and city systems.
521	The Sound Lab	Recording technology, acoustics, audio engineering, and radio studio history.
522	The Workshop	Tools, machine shops, fabrication, making, and craft technique.
523	Field Notes	Field biology, ecology, wildlife research, and natural-history methods.
524	The Classroom	Science, civics, and classroom instructional films from qualified archives.

WHY IT FEELS DIFFERENT

A normal flat catalog gives you a pile of links. Source Suite behaves more like a station: it has a clear editorial identity, a ready queue, a current program, a next program, and a reason for every item that appears.

LIVE, ARCHIVE, AND MUSIC LANES

Live and archive programming serve different moods. Live data changes with the world; archive lanes are curated for reliable, intentional discovery; music lanes are built to stay out of the way and let the sound play.

LIVE BROADCAST

Live TV, public cameras, highway views, NASA Live, and other continuously changing streams.

LIVE DATA

Weather, storm and tropical monitoring, world clock, aircraft, ships, tides, rivers, earthquakes, solar conditions, prices, and maps.

ARCHIVE AND IDEAS

Historical films and nonfiction organized around a subject, era, or point of view. These lanes use the IA queue system and strict editorial profiles.

SPORTS

A broad sports suite: live score context plus separate lanes for football, basketball, baseball, hockey, combat, racing, golf, tennis, rodeo, equestrian, and outdoor activity.

MUSIC AND RADIO

Audio-first channels for jazz, blues, folk, rock, classical, radio, concerts, and themed listening rooms. Video is not forced into an audio channel.

GOOD TO KNOW

Live sources can change or go offline. The app retries where supported and reports live status honestly. Source Suite does not silently mix unrelated categories just to fill a screen; it prefers a warming queue over genre drift.

A SMALL INVITATION

Turn it on, pick a category, and let the dial surprise you. RealSignal is meant to be browsed like television, but discovered like a library.
